MyPyramid for Kids reminds you to be physically active every day, or most days, and to make healthy food choices. Every part of the new symbol has a message for you. Can you figure it out?

Be Physically Active Every Day

The person climbing the stairs reminds you to do something active every day, like running, walking the dog, playing, swimming, biking, or climbing lots of stairs.

Choose Healthier Foods From Each Group

Why are the colored stripes wider at the bottom of the pyramid? Every food group has foods that you should eat more often than others; these foods are at the bottom of the pyramid.

Answer:

Look at the charts on pages 4 and 5. They show how much your children should eat. This may seem like a lot of food, but remember that snacks count, remember for foods low in saturated (solid) fats, trans fats, and foods and beverages low in added sugars, salt and sodium. Then there will be more room foods. small tummies

TIPS EOR FAMILIES

Eatit RIGHTT

1 Make lhalf your grains whole. Choose whole-grain foods, such as whole-wheat bread, oatmeal, brown rice, and lowfat popcorn, more often.
2. Vary your veggies. Go dark green and orange with your vegetables-eat spinach, broccoli, carrots, and sweet potatoes.

Focus on frruits. Eat them at meals, and at snack time, too. Choose fresh, frozen, canned, or dried, and go easy on the fruit juice.

4t Get your calcium-rich foods. To build strong bones, serve lowfat and fat-free milk and other milk products several times a day.

E Go lean with protein. Eat lean or lowfat meat, chicken, turkey, and fish. Also, change your tune with more dry beans and peas. Add chick peas, nuts, or seeds to a salad; pinto beans to a burrito; or kidney beans to soup.

Change your oil. We all need oil. Get yours from fish, nuts, and liquid oils such as corn, soybean, canola, and olive oil.

TDon't sugarcoat it. Choose foods and beverages that do not have sugar and caloric sweeteners as one of the first ingredients. Added sugars contribute calories with few, if any, nutrients.

Exercise

1 Set a good example. Be physically active and get your family to join you. Have fun together. Play with the kids or pets. Go for a walk, tumble in the leaves, or play catch.
2. Take the President's Challenge as a family. Track your individual physical activities together and earn awards for active lifestyles at www.presidentschallenge.org.

3 Establish a routine. Set aside time each day as physical activity time-walk, jog, skate, cycle, or swim. Adults need at least 30 minutes of physical activity most days of the week; children 60 minutes everyday or most days.
4. Have an activity party. Make the next birthday party centered on physical activity. Try backyard Olympics, or relay races. Have a bowling or skating party.

5Set up a home gym. Use household items, such as canned foods, as weights. Stairs can substitute for stair machines.

Move itt Instead of sitting through TV commercials, get up and move. When you talk on the phone, lift weights or walk around. Remember to limit TV watching and computer time.

7Give activity gifts. Give gifts that encourage physical activity-active games or sporting equipment.

TEST YOUR MILK GROUP IQ

Consuming fat-free and lowfat milk and milk products provides health benefits-people who have a diet rich in milk and milk products can reduce the risk of low bone mass. Foods in the milk group provide nutrients that are vital for health and maintenance of your body. These nutrients include calcium, potassium, and protein. Fortified milk also provides vitamin D.

True or False:

1.__You need foods from the milk group throughout your life, not just when you're young.
2.A diet low in milk products may increase your risk of osteoporosis and hypertension.
3.___Supplements are the best way to get the calcium you need each day.
4. $\qquad$ Adults need 3 cups of lowfat, or fat-free milk, or their equivalent, each day.

5. ___If you aren't getting enough calcium from your diet, your body will take what it needs from your muscles.
6. $\qquad$ Fat-free milk has less calcium than regular whole milk.
2. $\qquad$ Calcium-fortified beverages like orange juice and soy beverages are in the milk group, too.
8. $\qquad$ If you are lactose intolerant, you can't consume any milk products.
9. $\qquad$ Most of your bone mass is achieved by age 20 .

Answers on page 36

Have Problems with Milk?

If you are lactose intolerant, the following tips may be helpful:

- Drinking milk with other foods, rather than on an empty stomach, may help.
- You may also want to try lactose-reduced or lactose-free milk found in the dairy case in most supermarkets.
- Add lactase enzyme drops to regular milk to make it easier to digest, or look for dairy digestive supplements (lactase caplets) at your drugstore.
- Talk to your physician first-what you think is lactose intolerance could be something else.

What Kind of Role Model Are You?

We know that healthy habits begin at home. And research shows that YOU are your child's most important role model. When children see their parents practice healthy eating and being physically active, they are more likely to follow their example.

Think of one small positive nutrition and physical activity goal you can set for the next week. Make your goal very specific and write it in the box below:

Week of $\qquad$

| Family member's name | What I will do | How often I will do it | Check each time you do it! |
| :--- | :--- | :--- | :--- |
| Example: Dad | Eat fresh fruit | Every day | /// |
| Example: Mom | Take a 30-minute walk | Four times a week. |  |
|  |  |  |  |

Tell your child about your goals and ask him or her to help you stick to it! Maybe your child would like to set a goal also.

from Sharon

Sometimes it's a strusgle to get kids to try new foods! They seem to like to stick with a few favorites: peanut butter and jelly, chicken nusgets, French fries, and juice. I know that they need more variety in their diets, so I've decided that we should make it fun to try new foods. When I'm at the grocery store, I often let each child select one new fruit or vegetable to try. At home we prepare the food together and I'm sure to sive them lots of praise for their good work. We don't have space for a garden, but an older relative has one and my kids find it fascinating to pull things out of the ground that they can eat at the next meal. We've also gone on trips to the farmer's And I'm going to try to the farmers about how they grow then window. I think that my growing herbs in little pots by kids will enjoy picking and eating them.
I made a list of some foods that I thought my children might like to try bout them. Each child got to select one new food and if they tried two bites, I gave them a Two Bite Club Certificate. You might like to do the same thing for your children.
Here is my list of new foods for my children to try: Flounder Dried cranberries Asparagus Black beans Acorn squash Tofu Mango Kidney beans
